This workshop will provide participants with the opportunity to better understand key concepts when including students with disabilities in schools and why implementing the least intrusive supports is essential for developing student independence.

This workshop will focus on:

- discussing the benefits and importance of fostering independence, autonomy and inclusion with students of any age;
- identifying the importance of implementing least intrusive academic and behavioral supports when including students with disabilities;
- describing three ways to make the IEP process more inclusive, individualized, and person-centered.

ANYONE INTERESTED IN ATTENDING MUST PRE-REGISTER.
